AUXILIARY UNIFORM & CHOREOGRAPHY INFORMATION

A Note from Melissa Morris Bishop, Auxiliary Representative, RBAA Board

Homecoming 2004 was a tremendous success with more auxiliaries marching than any previous alumni band gathering! The number of first-time auxiliary marchers was incredible. It was great fun to witness the excitement of the "first timers" and their sense of accomplishment once pre-game was over. The current auxiliaries even surprised us with goodie bags and auxiliary alumni t-shirts designed specifically for that day.

Prior to Homecoming, I received e-mails from many alumni who thought that wearing a uniform was required and had never returned to march for that reason. Last year, many of us wore black leotards and black yoga pants. Some wore t-shirts and yoga pants or shorts. And we still had a few brave enough to wear their uniform – more power to them! Whatever you feel most comfortable in - wear it – but please join us for a great day of fun and reconnecting with old friends.

A few alumni e-mailed their concerns that the choreography would be too difficult for them to learn that morning. The Georgettes and Majorettes and Flagline repeated a short section of the choreography from Glory during "I Got the Music in Me." Those who had never marched in an alumni band found the routine easy to learn. Many already knew it. We even had one former Georgette come to the field to visit friends. When she discovered she already knew the dance routine, she decided to jump out there and perform with us – in her jeans!

So come show your UGA spirit and catch up with friends this year. It will be the most fun you've had since graduation! If you have any auxiliary-related questions or concerns about performing at Homecoming 2005, please e-mail me at melissambishop@comcast.net or call me at (770) 979-5644. I hope to see each of you on October 22! Go Dawgs!!
